

IBA/IPPA Legislative Day Set for March 10

Do you realize the importance of communication with your elected representatives, yet just don't feel comfortable making that contact?

Then you certainly aren't alone. But maybe it is time you move out of your "comfort zone" and introduce yourself. Put a face with a name, and introduce yourself to your representative who is voting on issues that undoubtedly affect you back on the farm.

IBA, along with IL Pork Producers, orchestrate a very informative briefing, followed by a relaxed and comfortable reception in Springfield at the downtown Hilton.

This is your opportunity to share your story, your concerns and your thoughts with representatives and their staffers. Last year 17 senators and 33 representatives joined beef and pork producers to visit and swap business cards.

Jim Kaitschuk, IBA Legislative Consultant, and IBA Exec. VP, Maralee Johnson, will lead a briefing in the morning, on current "hot issues" that need to be addressed. It is a good time for questions and concerns about how proposed legislation will ultimately affect you.

Following lunch, a bus will take participants to the Capitol where you can personally visit your representative. Then you will be bussed back to the Hilton for the reception.

All members of the IBA are invited and encouraged to attend. IBA spends a significant amount of money hosting this event. It could be the most beneficial activity you attend all year.

Please make plans to attend! You won't be sorry that you did.
